

ABSTRACT

An acoustical insulation product for a vehicle includes a blanket of fibers and a facing material adhered to a major surface of the blanket. The product has a perimeter flange made by pressing the facing material and an edge portion of the blanket
5 together. The flange provides stiffness to the product, and the flange is capable of being held in place on the vehicle by an attachment system.

US 2004/0126330 A1